Editor and Reviewer comments:

Reviewer #1:

1. The abstract provides a good overview of incorporating heuristic reasoning in Christian Education. Consider adding a sentence that briefly outlines the study's specific objectives, such as investigating the effectiveness of heuristic reasoning in improving critical thinking skills among Christian Education students.
2. The abstract mentions the use of five articles from reputable journals in the research. It would be beneficial to summarize key findings from each article to support the argument for using heuristic reasoning in Christian Education.
3. While the abstract briefly mentions the benefits of heuristics, it would be helpful to expand on these benefits in the article's main body. Include specific examples or case studies demonstrating how heuristic reasoning can enhance Christian education's critical thinking, decision-making, and problem-solving skills.
4. In the keywords section, consider adding additional relevant keywords such as cognitive processes, teaching methods, and pedagogical strategies to comprehensively represent the article's content.
5. Throughout the article, ensure a clear connection between using heuristic reasoning and its relevance to Christian Education. Explain how heuristic reasoning aligns with the principles and values of Christian teachings and how it can contribute to students' spiritual growth and development.

I hope you can make improvements as soon as possible and send the revised article again via this email.

Dear

A Dan Kia

Universitas Kristen Indonesia

Thank you for your efforts to improve the article.

Based on the Reviewers' considerations, the article has, at some point, increased. However, has to improve on a few more points. Hopefully, your is willing to do it.

Please follow the following revision instructions:

#Reviewer 2:

1. In the introduction section, provide a clear rationale for why heuristic reasoning is specifically chosen as the focus of this study in the context of Christian Education. Explain how heuristic reasoning aligns with the principles of the Christian faith and how it can enhance the teaching and learning process within this specific educational framework.
2. In the methodology section, elaborate on the selection criteria for choosing the five articles in the literature review. Briefly describe the journals and their relevance to heuristic reasoning in education. Additionally, consider including a statement about potential limitations or biases in the selected articles to ensure transparency and objectivity.
3. In the discussion section, go beyond describing the benefits of heuristic reasoning and explore potential challenges or limitations that may arise when implementing this approach in Christian Education. Address concerns about integrating heuristic reasoning with the existing curriculum or pedagogical methods, and propose strategies or recommendations to overcome these challenges.
4. Consider incorporating real-life examples or case studies from Christian educational settings throughout the article to illustrate the practical application and effectiveness of heuristic reasoning. These examples can help readers better understand how heuristic reasoning can be integrated into the teaching process and its impact on students' spiritual and cognitive development.
5. In the conclusion section, summarize the key findings and contributions of the study, emphasizing how the application of heuristic reasoning can lead to improved teaching quality and the development of mature disciples of Christ. Additionally, provide suggestions for future research directions, such as exploring the long-term effects of heuristic reasoning on students' faith formation and examining the role of teachers in fostering heuristic thinking skills.

Articles that have been revised and please send them back via this email.
