Reviewer A:

Dear Editor and Author,

Please find attached is the reviews and suggested edits for the manuscript entitled "Ethnobotanical study of traditional steam bath (Bafufu) from Lako Akediri Village, West Halmahera, Indonesia".

Despite the very simple method, this paper present a very interesting study theme (i.e. the use of plants in traditional steam bath) in a unique study area (eastern part of Indonesia) which is lesser known than other Indonesian parts. Therefore, the findings in this study enrich the existing knowledge of similar studies which are mostly conducted in western region of Indonesia. Since the research is mostly presented in qualitative and narrative format, it is imperative to strengthen the accuracy of the language. Therefore, some suggested edits

Other issues need to resolve include:

1. Abstract, Please mentioned here the most cited plants you found in the study.
2. The Introduction is considerably short, so that I would suggest to elaborate the paragraphs to make them more comprehensive.
3. The first paragraph of Introduction can be expanded by elaborating the diversity of medicinal plants in Indonesia, the example of uses, etc.
4. In Introduction, I would suggest to separate this paragraph by explaining the methods of medication using medicinal plants to introduce the issue you would like to discuss in this paper
5. Table 2, Please provide number of each species to ease the reading of the table.
6. In the table you named Ruellia simplex as "puli" while in the main text you called "pulai". Please check again for consistency.

Best regards,

Reviewer
