Editor and reviewer comments:

Reviewer:

- 1. Clarity of Objective: The objective of building a culture of tolerance since early childhood is well-stated. However, it would be beneficial to explicitly mention the anticipated impact or outcome of fostering such a culture. How will it contribute to societal harmony in Indonesia?
- 2. Data Sources Clarification: While you mention obtaining data from books, scientific journals, and related works, it would strengthen the article if you could provide specific examples or references to the sources. This will enhance the credibility and transparency of your literature review.
- 3. Elaboration on Social Behavior Patterns: The first condition regarding poor social behavior patterns at home could be further elaborated. What specific behaviors are considered detrimental, and how do these patterns contribute to the challenges faced by children in adolescence and adulthood?
- 4. Model of Behavior Illustration: When discussing the importance of the home providing a model of behavior to imitate, consider including real-life examples or case studies to illustrate this point. This will make the concept more tangible for readers.
- 5. Motivation to Learn: The third condition mentions a lack of motivation to learn. It would be valuable to explore potential reasons behind this lack of motivation and propose strategies or interventions to enhance children's motivation for learning.
- 6. In-depth Analysis of Cultural Context: Given the focus on Indonesia as a pluralistic society, a deeper analysis of the cultural context would be beneficial. How do cultural factors influence the development of tolerance, and are there specific cultural nuances that need to be addressed?
- 7. Consistency in Terminology: Ensure consistency in the use of terminology throughout the article. For instance, if you mention "child" in the conclusion, make sure it aligns with the term "early childhood" used in the title and abstract.
- 8. Integration of Practical Recommendations: Towards the conclusion, consider integrating practical recommendations or strategies for parents, educators, or policymakers to implement in fostering a culture of tolerance in early childhood.

9. Quantitative Data Incorporation: While you mention obtaining data from various sources, consider incorporating quantitative data or statistical findings to support your points. This can add a layer of empirical evidence to your argument.
10. Conclusion Reinforcement: The conclusion could be strengthened by summarizing the key takeaways and emphasizing the urgency or significance of building a culture of tolerance in early childhood for the overall well-being of society.

I hope you can make improvements as soon as possible and send the revised article again via this email.
